START WITH A CAPITOL. FINISH WITH A PERIOD.

No lazy rivers here. It's a bold rush of rapids. A gold mine for whitewater rafters. Soak up the thrills and spills on the American River, the Tuolumne River, the Merced River. Pretty scenery even in a blur.

CALIFORNIA

The capitol: Sacramento. The period: the Gold Rush, 1848-1859. Played out in the Gold Country's 300 miles of promise.

By the Forty-niners. Their towns—Hangman, Angels Camp, Drytown, Bootjack—tell their story. Passionate days. Pioneering years. Now the mood is mellow yellow. Wistful charm. Stage-coaches to ride. Streets from High Noon. Framed in Victoriana.

Where the big rivers foam and flow. Their rapids are rapid. And where they are slow, they are slow enough for a

A copper-clad dome. A cupola with a (what else) gold-plated roof. It's the state capitol building—Sacramento's pride and joy. Adored and restored. With devotion to detail: over 600,000 mosaic tiles were mapped and removed and replaced. Oldstyle grand.

Robin Hoods of the Old West. Who gave to themselves, not to the poor. The Gold Country swarmed with bandits and robbers like Rattlesnake Dick, Three-Fingered Jack, and the infamous Black Bart who held up 28 stagecoaches with an unloaded gun. What a pistol.

WHAT STARTS HERE FINISHES EVERYWHERE.

NEW YORK

Central Park. The Children's Zoo has reopened. Row boats, hansom cabs, and Carousel rides have never stopped. Join New Yorkers as they run-bike-skate-speedwalk, especially twice a day when the 6.2-mile loop around the Park is closed to traffic. Or just sit for a while on Hans Christian Anderson's lap.

New York is Manhattan is energy. Does anyone in the world walk faster than New Yorkers? Is anywhere on earth more fun to stand perfectly still—just looking—from the United Nations Center to Times Square?

What you ♥ in New York: The Statue of Liberty's torch. The Chrysler Building's scalloped crown. Radio City Music Hall, where today's usher might be tomorrow's Cary Grant. The Empire State Building. The Metropolitan Museum of Art. Hot pretzels on the street. The diversity you seek: Neighborhoods from posh

A CHORUS LINE

If you haven't been to a play, you haven't been to New York. Why settle for the tour? Know about TKTS for half-price, day-of-performance Broadway and OffBroadway tickets. And discover Off-Off-Broadway. Any further Off doesn't count.

Manhattan's grid. Logical. Easy to learn. East side, west side, uptown, downtown, midtown. Just be sure to get a little bit lost—on Bleecker St., Barrow St., Christopher Street—in the West Village. One of the places where the grid loses its grip. Any friendly piano bar or nightclub will give you shelter.

Park Avenue to the upper west side with its signature
brownstones to Chinatown,
its oriental culture intact,
unstirred by the melting pot. Food that speaks worlds:
Thai, Mexican, French, Italian, Indian, Greek. The town that makes books, soap operas, high fashion, high finance. And reputations.

Savvy. Sure. Simmering with energy to spare—so take some home.

Manhattan. Where beginnings never end.

Spending unending. You can leave next month's mortgage payment in any boutique from 3rd Avenue to Columbus Avenue. And then trade in a subway token for handpainted socks on the street. Where else are you going to find an avenue named after Fashion?

AUSTRALIA

In Sydney life really is a beach. An average of 342 sunny days a year means fewer than two days a month are not. Only a vegie would stay indoors in this town where clouds are strangers.

Flip the globe to Australia, that cheeky cousin from an alternate universe—where the seasons are upside down, tomorrow is already today, and the talk is the same, but, stone the crows and starve the lizards, oh, so different.

A place where sheep outnumber people 10 to 1.

Where the great outdoors is second nature.

Where distances are measured in 1,000's not 100's. A country with a back yard so vast they call it the Never Never.

Kindred soul to the American frontier—with working cattle ranches and cowboys in broad brimmed hats. The brash and breezy outback even spills into city living. Here's some good oil on two urban rivals:

At Rippon Lea or Como House, you'd never know Melbourne borders on the bush. Out back of these homes are English gardens. Inside you can see Australia before Olivia Newton John.

Start with sprawling Sydney, downtown to a continent. The Opera House may look like a George Lucas space station but this town's as earthy as Crocodile Dundee. Rough it on the golden beaches. Tumble into the rambunctious pubs.

Move on to Melbourne, hub to finance and fashion. Dignified. Sophisticated. But don't let those broad boulevards and stately buildings fool you. This town's no wowser. Everyone here horses around for the Melbourne Cup.

Australia. Spirited. Lusty.
A land big enough for its people.
A land they've civilized with fun.

G'arn! You thought cousin Aussie was all marsupials and crocodiles? Penguins parade nightly on Phillip Island outside of Melbourne. Hundreds of tiny be-tuxed creatures totter from surf to burrows, oblivious to spectators and spotlights. Some enchanted evening.

Like to find dimes on the street? Pocket your own opals and sapphires north of Sydney. Bushwalk in the Dandenong Ranges. Buy a "miner's right" to pan for gold at mining towns near Melbourne.
